Gen. Von Hindenburg

One of the most picturesque figures in Europe passed away quietly Thursday morning at Neudeck, Germany. He was Gen. Paul von Hindenburg, who held for nearly four years the famous Hindenburg line on the French front. So well did this German leader plan his defense that the line was not broken until American troops, possessed of initiative and daring never before seen in the trenches, took it and defeated the mighty Prussian Guard.

After the war Hindenburg did all in his power for his country. He forgot the hatreds of the military period and became a statesman. It is not often a military man proves successful in civil office, but Hindenburg was a rare exception. He earned the respect and admiration, not only of his own people, but of all the world. Leaders of nations whose armies opposed him in the Hindenburg line today join in tributes to his memory.

And the trend of those tributes is significant. In most of them it is emphasized that Germany is losing a "stabilizing force." Hindenburg was regarded as the "balance" in the mad whirlpool of German politics that held the nation on an even keel. Now he is gone, and the world is anxiously watching Germany, fearing lest her Nazi leaders will make some false step that will prove her utter ruin.

In Political Zoo

"What do the animals do when they want to say, 'I love you'?" Thus runs the refrain of a recent popular song. For answer members of the orchestra emit various barks, howls and squeals, supposed to harmonize with the music. But in the New York political zoo, an answer has been given by the Tammany tiger and the Democrat donkey. They have hit it off and are, for the first time in history, really married.

Tammany now has the blessing of the Washington administration. When James J. Dooling was elected chief of Tammany, the tiger purred softly under the caressing hand of the Democrat leadership in Washington. It is also the first time such a thing has ever happened. Tammany's alliance with the Washington government has never before been openly acknowledged.

Mr. Dooling also has the indorsement of Alfred E. Smith, who has come back to the Tammany fold, which may mean that the old breach between Smith and the administration has been healed. John F. Curry, who sat with stony face when the convention went wild at the nomination of Roosevelt, is gone, and enough changes have been made in the tiger to warrant his reception into the government fold.

All this probably means the ultimate return of Tammany to the control of New York city, because in the next election the Democrats will have a united front. After all, you can't beat a hungry tiger out of a square meal.

President Returns

After a 10,000-mile cruise with President Roosevelt aboard, the cruiser Houston will arrive today off the American coast. The President will be back home. He will continue his tour as planned, and will inspect various projects during his return to Washington across the country. But he will be within the borders of the United States and can reach the capital in a few hours in case of emergency.

Of course something is just as likely to happen to the President within the continental borders as it was while he was on the high seas or in the Hawaiian Islands. No person is ever free from the liability to accident or misfortune. But even so, there is a feeling of relief among the people because Mr. Roosevelt will be once more in the United States.

In theory he never left American territory, tho he went half way across the Pacific. But in fact he was in the orient, among the Asiatics. His tour was considered significant in American-Japanese relations, but his speech in Hawaii proved disappointing to the Japs. The President tried to avoid any suspicion that he was in Hawaii to impress Japan, but neither did he hold out any olive branch to the oriental empire.

His trip has served to bring the territory of Hawaii into closer relations with the home land, which is also true of Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, where the President stopped while outward bound. But while he has been away several important matters in this country made citizens wish he were here so that he could give them more attention.

Gen. Johnson Hungry

"I am starving to death. I've got to get out and make some money for myself." This is not a cry from somebody who has been unemployed for the length of the depression. It comes from Gen. Hugh Johnson, head of the NRA, who is supposed to be getting a good salary from Uncle Sam. Johnson made the statement in an address before the Pacific Advertising Club in convention at Portland. It was deleted from the press write-ups of the speech, but some investigator rooted it out, and Mr. Johnson's hunger is now a topic of conversation in Washington and food for the columnists.

Strangely enough, the statement was the first Johnson has ever made in regard to leaving the NRA. Here, therefore any suggestion that he might cut loose from the blue eagle has met with explosive denials and protests from him. His confession of inability to support himself followed a conference with his close friend and former employer, Barney Barnich, and it was made after he had suggested that Roosevelt appoint a board to rule NIRA. Maybe Barnich suggested the board to replace Johnson when the latter retires.

If the General meant the statement as a forecast of his retirement, he certainly used the language of the Delphian oracle. He usually says what he means, whether or not he means what he says. But this time he left the audience to guess his meaning. Anybody knows that Johnson is not "starving to death," and if so, it's because he doesn't take time to eat.

Delightful Spots Near City

For those of us who do not have the opportunity of leaving the city to go to the seashore or to the mountains for our vacation, there are beautiful places right within short distances for over-night camping trips, picnics, or fishing excursions. Of course, Nichols Park offers many advantages for recreation to local people: swimming, fishing, boating, golf, tennis, and roque enthusiasts can find an ideal place to practice their favorite sport at the park. Samuel W. Nichols will never be forgotten for his invaluable gift to the Jacksonville community.

But there are other spots near the city which are somewhat more secluded and offer privacy for picnic parties in the woods. There are a good many places where one can go, and half the fun of it is to hunt delightful locations for a supper in the country.

The Journal-Courier does not maintain a Morgan County travel bureau, but we would like to make a few suggestions to local picnickers, provided they are interested in really scouting this part of the country.

North of this city where U. S. Route 67 turns at the Black farm home there is a dirt road that branches off to Virginia via Arcadia. Along this road there are several beautiful picnic spots.

Many people have found enjoyable places near Mercedosa, and all along the Illinois river valley. Across the river in Pike county, near Griggsville, there are small forests which are ideal for picnic suppers.

In the Point neighborhood west of this city some pretty spots are to be found by the aimless vacationer. Deserving the well traveled hard roads, one can find many places at which to make a temporary camp.

Southwest of Jacksonville, in the region known as Buckhorn there are many wooded plots which furnish ideal locations for picnic grounds.

Picnickers can find a haven almost anywhere near Nortonville, which is east of Murreysville; and in the territory south of Waverly.

West of Carrollton in the vicinity of Eldred beautiful scenery is afforded the persons who drives down the hilly roads. The bluffs along the river near there are remarkable for their scenic attraction.

Doubtless there are a good many other picnic spots in the Jacksonville area which the picnickers would enjoy. These are but a few suggestions. We would appreciate receiving more so that we can pass them on.

So nobody mentioned Wall Street at the Waverly picnic. Well, why bring up unpleasant subjects?

The New Deal in Washington

This is the fourth of a series of articles by Rodney Dutcher, Courier and NEA Washington correspondent, dealing with the more important of the new governmental agencies in Washington, their aims, and activities.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington, Aug. 2.—The five members of the Securities Exchange Commission are nobly trying to forget that Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy was formerly a big stock market operator who played in racketeering pools of the type exposed by Ferdinand Pecora and now forbidden by law.

So far, they're all doing a good job at forgetting. Kennedy is co-operating with the four "purists" on SEC upon whom sponsors and friends of the stock market and securities act depend to regulate Wall Street and end its piratical practices.

The outstanding fact about SEC is that it's probably the ablest group of individuals ever gathered on a federal administrative board. It should be. In protecting the country against panics and innocent investors from voloes, it must regulate what Kennedy calls "a business by far the greatest in volume and most important in its effects of any in the country."

Whether these five strong individuals will keep on pulling together or will wreck one another remains to be seen. Most commissions are dominated by a chairman while the rest look like dummies. That can't happen here. Kennedy, whose appointment caused a liberal uproar, seems to realize that.

Look at Pecora, who once smashed the New York "bucketshops," then gained international fame by exposing the financial racketeering practices of Morgan, Mitchell, Wiggins and the other whales of Wall Street.

Work of Landis Is Brilliant

James M. Landis, perhaps most brilliant of all the Brain Trust, ex-Harvard Law school professor and protégé of Justice Brandeis. Landis wrote a securities act the smartest Wall Street lawyers couldn't evade, then administered it, and with Tom Corcoran and Ben Cohen wrote the stock market act on which Wall Street sweated its heart's blood in an effort to defeat.

Judge Robert E. Healey, the Vermontor who, as general counsel for the Federal Trade Commission, exposed machinations of the "power trust" and bared public utility propaganda methods which enraged the nation.

George C. Mathews, FTC member who administered the securities act with Landis after eight years enforcing the blue sky law in Wisconsin.

Kennedy, New York and Boston financier who contributed enormously to the Roosevelt campaign fund, a highly successful operator and participant in the Libby-Owens Securities Corporation pool exposed by Pecora—appointed as a friend of Roosevelt, a sop to Wall Street and a "reformed character."

Despite Kennedy's friendship with Jim Farley, petty politics has been ignored in selection of men for SEC key jobs. Judge John J. Burns, SEC general counsel, is a Felix Frankfurter product like the three fellows who wrote the two acts, the youngest judge ever to sit on the Massachusetts superior court and one who has handed down several decisions protecting investors.

He may have to defend validity of the acts before the U. S. supreme court. The four "purists" assigned to separate divisions of work, are picking their own men, often trusted former aides.

The three big SEC mandates are: 1. To give investors full information as to securities. 2. To outlaw manipulative practices which make suckers of investors not on "the inside." 3. To avert the sucking of credit to Wall Street speculation—which ruined countless bank and businesses firms in 1929.

The Federal Reserve Board is charged with covering the third point by establishing margin requirements and changing them at will. SEC will work closely with it on that. Margin requirement at first probably will be 45 per cent.

Registration to Launch Fight
You can depend on Wall Street's most expensive lawyers to be on the job when the various stock markets apply for registration—as they must, to continue in business. The real backstage fight will come when SEC lays down conditions for registration and subsequent operation and when it promulgates requirements for securities to be listed.

Stock exchange rules are at the seat of stock market evils SEC will almost certainly demand rules which permit exchanges to discipline members and enable them to wipe out forbidden practices—such as pools and wash sales—and protect investors.

The SEC can demand whatever reports its desires from corporations whose securities are listed. It is also empowered to regulate short selling. Exchanges are more likely to fight the commission than individual brokers, who are most anxious to get their business back. The "inside rings" on the exchanges, their old tricks of profiting by special information at the ordinary investors' expense, are hardest hit by the stock market act.

Reduced Bus Fares Proposed by Valley Company for City

Permission Given by Illinois Commerce Commission to Operate Here

Lower bus fares for Jacksonville and South Jacksonville were accepted in the proposal of the Valley Motor Bus company of Ottawa which yesterday was awarded a transfer of the present system of transportation from the Illinois Power and Light Corporation by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The Valley Motor Bus company proposed to issue four tokens for 25c instead of the three tokens issued by the present transportation company. The commission announced that the company must be amply protected by insurance and must file a new tariff of rates. Tokens must be accepted for a period of 60 days, after which they will be redeemed, the commission announced.

The change of service was awarded by allowing the Illinois Power and Light Corporation to abandon its service, and allowing the transfer of its certificate of necessity to the Ottawa company. No cash was involved in the transaction, although the power and light corporation will turn over to the Ottawa concern four buses now in use.

The city council, after consideration recently, decided not to object to the transfer of the transportation business now operated by the Illinois Power and Light Company to the Valley Motor Bus Company of Ottawa, which offered to buy the local system. The decision was made when it was pointed out that the local company was selling only its certificates of necessity and convenience, issued by the Illinois Commerce Commission, and was not disposing of its franchise.

Evidence introduced at a hearing in Springfield, before the commerce commission, was to the effect that the local company has been operating at a loss for the past five years. At the hearing it was said by the commissioner in charge that the local company probably had grounds to merely cut business if they so desired. Evidence also showed that the local company intended to give the Valley Motor Bus company its buses, and that the Valley company planned to take over the schedule under which the Illinois Power and Light Corp. was operating, and to extend the service at a later date.

WILL ROGERS says:

To the Editor of The Journal-Courier
Honolulu, Aug. 2.—Back into the real city of Honolulu after a wonderful few days (too few) on the big island ranches of the islands. These islands look little on the map but they sure do things big. Nowhere on the mainland; that's what they call the joint where we live. Nowhere is there such signs of doing well as there is here. You don't have to be warlike to get a real kick out of our greatest army post. Schofield barracks and the navy at Pearl Harbor. If war was declared with some Pacific nation we would lose the Philippines before lunch but if we lost these it would be our own fault.

JERSEYVILLE

Kill Six Groundhogs

R. Frank Hollis and Milton Hill of Alton reported a successful ground hog hunt at the Herman Gerson farm Saturday afternoon. The two men are employees of the Alton Box Board & Paper company and made their first trip into the ground hog infested district of western Jersey county the past week.

We were successful in killing six large ground hogs with our rifles at the farm of Herman Gerson," stated Hollis. "We believe that the proper shooting equipment should be rifles instead of shotguns because of the distance one is required to stay from their den holes to the shooting point, and we believe that if 22 caliber is used the cartridge should be 22 long rifle hi-speed hollow point bullets, which are comparatively inexpensive. Shotgun ammunition aside from being short ranged costs something like four cents apiece, whereas the 22s cost less than one cent each.

"Mr. Gerson is certainly anxious to have these pests exterminated and those of us who enjoy vermin shooting will certainly do our best to help him in this matter, and at the same time provide ourselves with a very enjoyable sport. Any sportsman interested in ground hog shooting should call at Gerson's farm. We believe that Gerson should have some sort of help in the form of a bounty or direct subsidy to obtain poisoned gas or some other form of exterminator."

Band to State Fair
The Jerseyville City Band received notice Tuesday night that the organization has been employed to play at the Illinois State Fair. The local band was the third to be employed for furnishing music during the annual session of the fair.

The Jerseyville band has played a number of out of town engagements in this section of Illinois the present year and is rapidly increasing in popularity as a musical organization.

Arthur Thatcher, justice of the Jerseyville township, has been appointed conciliation commissioner of Jersey county by Charles G. Briggie and Judge J. Earl Major of the district court of the United States, for the southern district of Illinois.

The appointment was made the 24th of July by Judges Briggie and Major.

The office was originally tendered to Attorney Fred A. DuHadway, but, owing to the nature of the position, he felt that it might interfere with his regular work as an attorney as many of the duties consist of the adjustment of mortgage matters certified from the federal court to the conciliation commissioner.

Why Tell the World You Have Body Odor?

New Way Ends It Instantly Leaves No Medicine-Smell

Famous chemists have discovered the effective answer for body odor—deep-pore cleansing. A new kind of bathing in hard water, made possible by Kirk's Coco Castile soap.

Ordinary soaps, with their thick, sluggish lathers, are being rapidly replaced by this 100% pure vegetable oil soap, made by America's largest soap makers. In this hard water Kirk's Coco Castile breaks instantly into a searching lather that cleans deep into the pores, actually removes stale perspiration beyond reach of ordinary soaps, then rinses out in a flash. Thus body odor is ended in the only effective way—by removing the cause.

Kirk's Coco Castile is delightful to use and stimulating to the skin. Free from offensive M. S. (medicine smell), it ends body odor the odorless way. A big bargain, 50 per cent. larger than average toilet soap, it is sold everywhere at the lowest price in history. Be sure to ask for Kirk's Castile by name—at your grocer's.

Jersey Wheat Group Prepares to Carry on for Second Year

Jerseyville, Aug. 2.—The Jersey County Wheat Production Control Association is re-organizing for its second year of activity under the AAA program, it is announced by Farm Adviser C. T. Kibler. The first step in the process was the election of seven directors and fourteen community committeemen for the 1934-1935 crop season, which has been recently done.

The wheat contract signers in Jersey county met in seven township meetings and elected a chairman and two members to each of their respective community committees. The chairman of each community committee will act as a member of the county board of directors.

Those selected by townships to assist in carrying on the wheat production adjustment work for the coming year are: Fidelity and Ruyle—A. R. Rich, chairman; John D. Quirk and Walter Powers, Jersey township—C. E. Stanley, chairman; Ed. Crone and H. G. Krueger, Jr. Richwoods and Rosedale townships—Ed. Springman, chairman; Wm. Krueger and Walter Krueger, Otter creek, Elsie and Quarry townships—John Cummings, chairman; Leslie Spangle and Thomas R. Jenkins, Piasa township—L. C. Wagonblast, chairman; Peter Wilmann and E. Harnisch, English township—Ben Kallal, chairman; Joe Beierman and Leo Boushka, Mississippi township—Eugene Everts, chairman; Frank Tracy and Harold Landon.

Within the next few days the chairmen of the seven community committees will meet to form the board of directors of the county control association and elect officers for the coming year.

Members of the retiring board of directors of the county control association who supervised the adjustment program here during its early activities are: C. E. Stanley, Jersey township; B. J. Kallal, English township; A. R. Rich, Ruyle and Fidelity townships; Eugene Everts, Mississippi township; L. C. Wagonblast, Piasa township; Robert Cooper, Richwoods and Rosedale townships; Thomas R. Jenkins, Elsie, Otter Creek and Quarry townships.

List Needed Wells

A list of places where emergency wells are needed was forwarded Wednesday afternoon by Farm Adviser C. T. Kibler to Major A. R. Lord, director of work relief for the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission. Kibler was advised by Congressman Henry T. Rainey that Jersey county is now in the secondary drought relief area and immediately forwarded the list of localities desperately in need of water at the present time.

The following places have been suggested: Kemper, village street of Kemper, Ruyle township, Fidelity school, Sec. 12-8-10 for Village of Fidelity and surrounding community; Prairie Union school, Sec. 26-9-10, for surrounding community; Hawkins Prairie school, Sec. 29-9-10, for surrounding community; Washington school, Sec. 34-9-11, for surrounding community; Washington school, Sec. 34-9-11, for surrounding community; Shakerag school, Sec. 14-8-12, for surrounding community; Fidelity, village street of Fidelity, for village, school and surrounding community; Otterville, village street of Otterville, for village, school and surrounding community; Delhi, village street of Delhi, for village, school and surrounding community; Newbern Corner, Sec. 32-7-11, for surrounding community; Wagonblast school, Sec. 9-7-10, for surrounding community.

"It is very urgent," Kibler stressed, to make available safe water supply for household use as a precaution to ward off sickness which will require medical aid on relief funds. A water supply for livestock purposes is a secondary consideration.

Kibler stated that he knew of excellent power driven well drilling rigs that can be made available very soon. The outfits have brought in some excellent supplies of water and are operated by reliable workmen.

If any of the suggested locations are not suitable for a well, Kibler indicated that a grant of land for well purposes could be obtained in any of the communities for the location of a well.

In concluding his plea, Kibler stated: "Immediate attention to this matter will be greatly appreciated in this

Complete 200 Hog Contracts
The first 200 of the 297 "regular" corn-hog adjustment contracts have been completed by Jersey county farmers and forwarded to Washington, it was announced by Fred Sinclair, president of the Jersey County Corn-Hog Control Association. This marked the beginning of the final steps of the campaign in Jersey county.

The first bundle of 200 was sent Saturday. Another 200 went forward Tuesday and an additional 200 are scheduled for Thursday. The last of the township signups was completed in Piasa, Quarry and Elsie townships yesterday. There are still some contracts being held up waiting for absentee landlords to return the signed papers. Notice will be sent to each signer as soon as the first checks are received which will probably be about the middle of August.

The final signup in Jersey county has been completed in ten days which constitutes a record when all of the work involved in preparing the final contracts is taken into consideration.

Dim Headlights, is Advice of Hughes

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 2.—Glaring headlights may be the direct concern of the "other fellow" on the highway, but for safety every motorist should be careful not to blind others as he is not to hinder his own vision by driving behind an unclear windshield, a safety bulletin issued by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes said today.

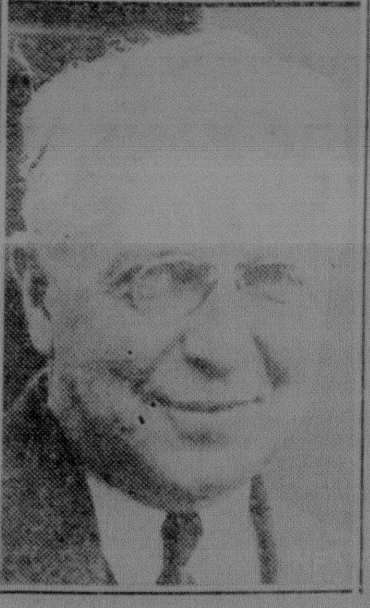

"Proper headlights and clean windows promote general safety both on highways and streets," the bulletin said. "One who drives with a glaring light may blind a motorist coming from the opposite direction and thereby invite a collision. Just as well drive in absolute darkness as into a blinding light."

Dim your headlights at the approach of traffic, for your own safety in this instance may depend on the clear vision of the driver coming toward you.

"And so that you may meet the glare of other headlights more successfully, keep your windshield clean. Dirty windshields are not only hazards in themselves, because they decrease visibility, but they also magnify the annoying glare of headlights striking them. To reduce the attendant risk of accident make it a habit to keep the glass in your windshield clean at all times. And also remember that the windshield wiper is one of the most important safety devices. Keep it in good condition so that it will be ready in an emergency."

CONFUSION ENDED ON BRAN

New Ruling Corrects All Labels

To protect the buying public, the United States Food and Drug Administration has advised that every package of cereal labeled "Bran" state on the label exactly what it contains.

Before this ruling, even part-bran products were sometimes mistakenly referred to as "Bran." It was not easy for the purchaser to distinguish between a cereal that was entirely bran, or all bran with flavoring, and another that was mostly wheat.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is labeled "ALL-BRAN. Deliciously Flavored with Malt, Sugar and Salt," a statement which describes the product fairly and honestly.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has won millions of friends because it corrects most types of common constipation safely and pleasantly. It furnishes generous "bulk"—needed to promote normal elimination.

However, ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all." Certain types of intestinal disorders should be treated only on a physician's advice.

When you buy a bran cereal, for the relief of constipation, read the wording on the package. The facts are there! Make sure by asking for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It furnishes "bulk" in concentrated form for satisfactory results.

At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

John R. Hoffman is Overcome by Heat During Grass Fire

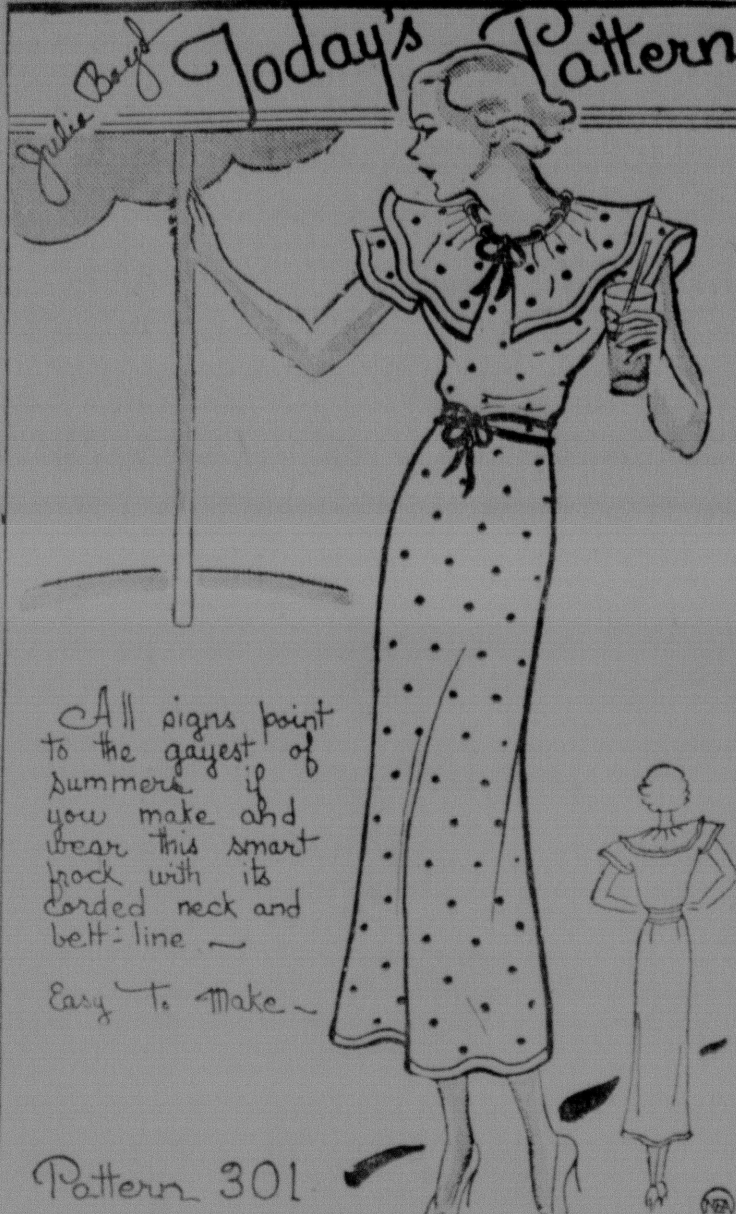

John R. Hoffman, manager of the Illinois Power and Light Company of this city, was prostrated by heat Thursday noon when he was overcome while fighting a grass fire in a rear lot of his home at 1610 Mound Ave. He was revived thru first aid treatments applied by Mahlon Gaumer and Paul Thompson who were among the first to reach the scene of the fire.

Mr. Hoffman had set fire to a pile of brush in a rear lot, and the flames spread from the brush pile to a heavy matting of dried grass. Spreading rapidly, Mr. Hoffman attempted to quench the fire before it could reach any of the adjacent buildings and the 100 degree heat of the day was too much for his system.

Damage by the fire was negligible, only the grass in the lot burning off. The flames spread to the lot of a neighbor and were burning in a small orchard when the fire department arrived and quenched the fire.

Mr. Hoffman apparently had recovered an hour after the blaze, but was confined to his home for the remainder of the day.

St. Louis, Aug. 2.—(P)—The St. Louis Browns closed a long home stand today by defeating the White Sox 9 to 8 after coming from behind to knock Tietje out of the box in the eighth and push over the winning runs in the ninth.

Trading 6 to 2 in the eighth the Browns came to life behind Sammy West's home run. Cliff Trotter, home ahead of the center fielder and Campbell scored a minute later when Bejma doubled. PIRATES SMOTHER REDLEGS 13 TO 3
Cincinnati Aug. 2.—(P)—Loose pitching and poor fielding co-operated today to let the Pittsburgh Pirates trounce the Cincinnati Reds 13 to 3.

Bunched singles, coupled with fielding errors at critical moments, gave the Pirates three innings worth four runs each. Meanwhile, "Red" Lucas for the most part set his former teammates down handily, holding them hitless for four innings.

Hafey's fifteenth home run of the season, a drive in the seventh that hit the roof of a house across the street, did the Reds little good.

YANKS BOMBARD RED SOX 12 TO 4

New York, Aug. 2.—(P)—The Yankees spent a joyous afternoon improving their batting averages at the expense of Boston pitching today but although they slammed out 18 hits and a 12 to 4 victory over the Red Sox they failed to regain the American League lead.

The Detroit Tigers shut out Cleveland and remained on top by a full game.

Every Yankee but Babe Ruth, who failed five times, and Sam Byrd, who didn't go to bat, hit safely at least once. The big swat, however, was Lou Gehrig's 33rd home run. The blow, which left Lou only one behind Jimmie Foxx in the race put the Major League leadership, set the fashion for the seventh inning swatfest which netted the Yanks five runs and put the game on ice.

Gehrig's homer opened the seventh when Johnny Welch took the hill after Henry Johnson had been knocked out by a three-run burst in the sixth which put the Yanks ahead. Bill Dickey duplicated the blow and after Ben Chapman doubled Tony Lazzeri made a third circuit swat and blasted the Sox right out of the picture.

Cleveland, Aug. 2.—(P)—Mickey Cochrane's surprise pitching choice against the Indians turned out to be a pretty piece of strategy today when young Elden Auker shut out the Tribe, allowing only four hits. The score was 3 to 0.

Auker beat the Indian ace, Mel Harder, in a duel, while the Tigers rapped out 10 hits.

Announce Program for Producers' Day at Rees Station

Plans for a Morgan county livestock producers' day, to be observed at Rees Station Wednesday, August 8, were announced Thursday morning. There will be a draft horse show and mule show and a grading demonstration with fat cattle, veal calves, sheep and hogs.

The event is educational nature and is designed to acquaint farmers with the methods used in grading stock when it reaches the terminal market. Few stock raisers ever visit the market, and yet they should know how their animals are to be handled in the stockyards. Experts from the National Stockyards will be on hand to actually grade the animals in the ring and explain to the farmers the how and why of their work.

The program will open at 10 a. m. with stock raisers assembling at farms in the vicinity of Rees Station for the grading of fat cattle. At 11 o'clock they will assemble on the Milford Rees farm for the draft horse and mule show. At noon luncheon will be served by organizations from Sacred Heart, Providence and Durbin churches.

At 1:30 o'clock the farmers will assemble to hear Ray Miller, I. A. A. livestock marketing director, discuss "National aspects of co-operative marketing." At 2 o'clock Daniel Dietrich, president of the Morgan county Shipping Service, will discuss the advantages of that organization.

At 2:15 p. m. experts from the National Stockyards will grade and classify veal calves, sheep and hogs.

TERMITES EAT LARGE TIMBERS IN JERSEY COUNTY RESIDENCE

Jerseyville, Aug. 2.—The damage that termites ants may do to a residence has been demonstrated at the Case farm near Otterville.

Recently it was decided to construct a new house on the farm, and the old residence was torn down to make room for the new modern structure.

Original plans called for the utilization of a lot of the timber from the first building, but this was largely abandoned when it was determined that much of the sills and other timbers in the old house had been devoured by the ants.

Mrs. T. A. Case stated Tuesday that the ants must have been at work in the old dwelling over a considerable period of time.

"The old house," she stated, "was one of the oldest dwellings in the Otterville vicinity at the present time. It was built more than seventy years ago."

"Something like ten years ago we noticed for the first time what we called flying ants emerging from a crack in the wainscoting of the dining room."

This was repeated each year and last summer my daughter, Mrs. Russell Campbell, reported that the flying ants were emerging from another part of the house.

"When the dwelling was wrecked to make room for the new house, many of the largest timbers were found to be mere shells, almost entirely eaten away by the ants."

During the past few years termites have become more prevalent in Jersey county. The insects work from the inside of a piece of timber or panel, preferring darkness to light. The first intimation of their presence is often when they eat through a bit of weather boarding or finishing material.

The Jersey Township High school the past year experienced damage from the insects and several residences in Woodlawn were found to be infested when painters started to work.

Dr. F. P. Norbury is Speaker at Kiwanis

Meteorology was discussed by Dr. F. P. Norbury, local cooperative weather observer, at the Thursday meeting of the Jacksonville Kiwanis club. Announcement was made at the meeting that the annual club picnic will be held at the Kiwanis Hut, southeast of the city next Thursday. Plans for a golf tournament were also reported by Ralph Hutchinson. Guests at the meeting included Dr. F. G. Norbury and Morrie Craig.

Dr. Norbury said "meteorology is the science of weather, the science of the physical processes going on in the earth's atmosphere. Meteorology therefore is a branch of physics and to understand weather phenomena it is necessary to be in touch with certain principles of physics and their application to 'Why Weather?'"

Meteorology differs from other sciences such as chemistry and biology in that those sciences have developed thru research, wherein experimental investigation has controlled verifiable experiments. The results of these experiments give rise to theories; these theories give rise to new experiments which yield results contributing to the advance and practical value of the science in question.

Weather has its experiments too, but they are those carried on in the laboratory of nature. Few people realize the scale of these experiments.

what they mean. Why weather? These various processes of heating and cooling, rising and falling and horizontal motions of great masses of air, evaporation and condensation of enormous quantities of water, electrical and optical phenomena are known to you all, at least in a more or less familiar objective way.

The explanation of the causes of storms and local weather data was given by Dr. Norbury.

Jacksonville Makes Good Birth Record Statistics Reveal

Only nine cities in the state have a better record for raising children beyond one year of age than Jacksonville, statistics issued by the federal census bureau for 1933 reveal. The figures show that Illinois ranked fourth in the number of births during 1933, and that only eight states in the union could show better infant mortality rates than Illinois. Of the 2,064,944 children born last year in the United States, 106,861 were natives of Illinois. New York, Pennsylvania, Texas, and Illinois led in number. The Illinois birth rate per 1,000 population, however, was only 13.7 against a national rate of 16.4 and a rate of 14.4 in Illinois for 1932. Deaths of children under a year old number 5,281 in the state, an average of 49.4 for every 1,000 live births against the national rate of 58.2 deaths. The Illinois rate had improved from 52.8 in 1932. Illinois also showed a better record for stillbirths, the state total of 3,214 making an average of 3 deaths for every 100 live births. The national rate was 3.7. Oak Park had the highest birth rate in the state. According to the figures, Jacksonville had 307 births during 1933, an average of 17 per cent for each 1,000 population. The number rated the city as 20th in the Illinois list of more than 50 cities. Deaths of children under one year by the federal bureau reported, giving age were 15, the 1933 figures used being the city an average of 48.9 per cent for all live births. Belleville led the state in this phase, with an average of 23.1, and Ottawa and Centralia were next. Other cities with better records than Jacksonville were Bloomington, Decatur, Joliet, Moline, St. Louis, and Waukegan.

Plenty of Oratory Planned for Big Republican Rally

Fletcher to Launch Drive for Votes; Hugh Green Will Speak

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 2.—(P)—There will be lots of oratory and not much time for floor fights when Illinois Republicans launch their campaign at the state convention here a week from today.

G.O.P. leaders have booked a solid three and a half hours of speaking. Seventeen national and state leaders will address the delegates.

National Chairman Harry P. Fletcher will be the big attraction. He is to launch the Republican campaign to elect congressmen in the midwest.

And since the delegates are also to sit through a long series of short speeches, there isn't so much possibility of an uproar over two issues that threaten to mar convention unanimity—selection of a permanent chairman and nomination of university trustees.

Fletcher and Brooks are the main speakers. Others include Francis G. Blair, superintendent of public instruction; William J. Stratton, candidate for treasurer, and Milton E. Jones, nominee for congressman-at-large.

District congressional nominees on the program are: J. Lester Buford of Johnston City; Ben O. Sumner of Lawrenceville; Charles H. Fletcher of Mattoon and Burnett M. Chipfield of Canton.

Legislators who are to speak are: Rep. Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago, minority leader; Senator Noah M. Mason of Oglesby, president of the State Teachers association; Rep. Roger F. Little, Champaign; Senator Earl B. Searcy, Springfield, caucus leader; Rep. Leroy M. Green, Rockford; Rep. Hugh Green, Jacksonville; Rep. William E. King, Chicago negro and senate nominee.

RETURN TO MARION

Mrs. James Minton and son, Joe, his wife and daughter, Mildred of Marion, Ill., left for home Thursday, after visiting with Mrs. Minton's brothers, Roy Howerton and family of N. Prairie street, and James Howerton and family in Peoria, Ill.

James Howerton has been in poor health for sometime, but seems much improved at present.

"MARY FAITH" by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Wilton Street was dark and silent when Mary Faith left it that night, but the windows of the Maldons' apartment were brightly lighted and there was a long black glittering row of parked automobiles at the curb. The taxiab drew up beside them and Mary Faith felt three or four drops of icy rain on her face as she stepped out and paid the driver.

Inside, the tall building was like a modern Tower of Babel, filled with the murmur of many voices and of radio music that seeped into the halls from behind the closed doors of the two and three-room "housekeeping" suites. Mary Faith never had seen a child, or heard the voice of a child, in the building.

The colored woman who helped out whenever the Maldons had parties was just emerging from their suite when Mary Faith arrived. She held the door open, and Mary Faith stepped inside. No one saw her for a moment as she stood in the tiny foyer, taking in the scene in the living room. Everything was just as she had known it would be. Four or five people were gathered around the tea-wagon at the far end of the room. Three or four others knelt on the rug beside a harknagom board. One couple danced slowly and dreamily in the middle of the floor. Kim and Claire.

Claire's yellow head was tilted back in the crook of Kim's arm, and she was saying something to him that made him smile. There was something in his face—a look of tender absorption—that made Mary Faith feel as if someone had taken tight hold of her heart and was squeezing it. And then in an instant that look was gone. Kim had caught sight of her. He said something to Claire, who turned and called out, "Hello, Mary Faith!" Then the two of them came forward.

"Hello, wife!" Kim said. "I had an idea you'd be along pretty soon, if I just waited for you."

"Yes, he's been fairly pacing the floor, waiting for you," Claire put in, and the group around the tea-wagon burst into a roar of laughter.

Jack Maldon had come up behind Mary Faith. "Let me take your coat," he said.

"Thanks, Jack." They confronted each other gravely in the midst of the confusion and the crazy din, exactly as two people who spoke the same language might have faced each other in a crowd of foreigners.

"Do you want to come out to the kitchen while I wash glasses?" he asked.

"That's a great idea," said Kim. "You and Mary Faith go out and do your 'washers' of wood and carriers of water' at, and while you're doing that, I'll dance with your wife."

"Oh, come on and dance then and don't talk so much. Handsome!" Claire interrupted. With troubled eyes Mary Faith watched them dance across the room. She felt just then that she would cheerfully surrender a year of her life to be able to do what Claire was doing—to dance Kim away from everybody else, and make him like it.

For there was no doubt that Kim did like it. He followed Claire around the set like her shadow all the rest of the night. Mary Faith watched them thoughtfully, jealously, and with a kind of sick despair, whenever she emerged from the hot kitchen where she and Jack were cooking the breakfast that everybody demanded along toward four o'clock.

"Gosh, I'm tired!" he said, opening a can of tomatoes for the omelette that Mary Faith was preparing. He sounded tired. Tired and discouraged. "I wish this crowd would clear out and let me get some sleep."

"What happened, Kim? You're wet."

He had to think for a minute before he answered her. "Raining outside," he said finally. "Raining and snowing. My car stopped on the way home. Couldn't get it started again."

He refused to take the hot bath that she got ready for him, and by the time she had made him a cup of hot coffee he was sound asleep, breathing in an uneven, rapid way that made her remember the way he had breathed a few weeks before when he had bronchitis.

He slept all day. Even the cough

Claire can do this sort of thing every night in the week. I don't know how she gets away with it."

"She doesn't work all day the way you do," Mary Faith reminded him. "Sandy works all day," Jack said, "and he's as fresh as a daisy right now." He nodded his head in the direction of the living room. "Listen to him."

Mary Faith had been listening to Kim for the past five minutes. He had been singing "Frankie and Johnnie" for the crowd, and he was on the last verse now.

"This story has no morals—This story has no end, This story only goes to show—That there ain't no good in men—"

"The whole place smells like a brewery, too," Jack went on, and then suddenly he laughed.

"I'm not a very good host, am I, Mary Faith?"

Mary Faith turned from the stove and faced him. "The trouble with you and me, Jack, is that we aren't 'good sports.' The only difference is that you try to be one, and I don't. I know there's a side of Kim that likes this sort of a good time, and I don't even pretend to understand that side of him."

It was a side of him that she had never known until long after she married him, she reflected a little later, watching him and Claire feed each other bits of toast and omelette.

He was almost like a stranger to her, this loud-talking, laughing man, with his bloodshot eyes and rumpled blond hair.

He scowled when she hugged him to start home as soon as breakfast had been eaten and the crowd was beginning to dance and drink again. And it came over her suddenly that he had always treated her with something between dislike and indifference when he was with Claire Maldon and her crowd.

"No, I'm not going home," he told her. "I'm having a good time. If you want to leave, it's more than okay with me. . . . You sure do know how to put the graveyard touch to a party."

Mary Faith wondered how he could find this one of Claire's so entertaining. It was so like all the other gatherings in the Maldon flat. The same drinks and games and dance-music. The same people—the red-haired woman who always wore pink, the one named Sally who always did a solo dance called "the mess-around" that she had learned, so she invariably explained, on a plantation in the South one year when she had wintered there, the little black-mustached man who could sit on a stone jug and light a match stuck in the toe of his shoes without falling off the jug. To Mary Faith it was all very dull and very silly.

Mary Faith finally telephoned for a cab and went home. It was broad daylight when she was awakened by the sound of coughing. She opened her eyes to find Kim standing beside the bed, trying to get out of his coat and vest. When she tried to help him, she found that his clothes were damp and that there were drops of moisture on his hair.

"What happened, Kim? You're wet."

He had to think for a minute before he answered her. "Raining outside," he said finally. "Raining and snowing. My car stopped on the way home. Couldn't get it started again."

He refused to take the hot bath that she got ready for him, and by the time she had made him a cup of hot coffee he was sound asleep, breathing in an uneven, rapid way that made her remember the way he had breathed a few weeks before when he had bronchitis.

that shook his body every few minutes did not rouse him. At ten that night Mary Faith sent for the doctor, who said that Kim was in for another siege of bronchitis.

The next morning he was worse, and on the third day his fever rose to a hundred and four degrees. Mary Faith called the doctor and by the time he arrived, Kim was delirious.

"Pneumonia," Dr. Thatcher said gravely. "I've never properly recovered from the first attack of bronchitis
